JUNE 1979

GENERAL MEETING

The general meeting of the Virginia-Highland Civic Association will be held on Tuesday, June 26th, at 8 PM at the Highland Branch Library.

Our main topic will be "Residential Landscaping: An Introduction." Richard Anderson, a landscape architect who lives in our neighborhood, will cover sources of information available to the general public for home use. He will also cover the role landscape architects can play in designing your plot of greenery and what you can do on your own.

Downey Young, a landscape contractor with "Sell and Young, Landscape Contractors," will speak on how to care for, prune, etc. existing plantings, which are prevalent in older neighborhoods.

Following the two talks outlined above, there will be a question and answer period for you to participate in.

Lastly, we will have reports by various committee chairmen and announcements.

Hope to see you then!

--Gail Novak

On Saturday, the Auburn Area Walking Tour will take you down streets, through buildings and businesses, where the beginnings of black prosperity were

EMERGENCY CARE FOR YOUNG CHILDREN

The Childbirth Education Association of Atlanta is sponsoring a four hour course on "Emergency Care of Young Children." It will be held on two upcoming dates: Saturday, July 21, 9 AM - 1 PM (Highland Library) and Sunday, July 22, 1 PM - 5 PM (Druid Hills Presbyterian Church). Topics in the course range from insect bites to poisoning and choking. Included is a practice session on cardiopulmonary resuscitation. For information on fees and registration, call the CEA office at 873-2449.

planned and begun. Visit historically renowned churches--Ebenezer, Wheat Street, Big Bethel and First Congregational--and enjoy an afternoon of jazz at the once famous Royal Peacock Lounge. All in all, a wonderful opportunity to tap into the oral history of Auburn's past, and to meet the individuals who led the area to the place of prominence it holds in the history of black growth and prosperity in Atlanta.

A schedule of the week's events can be found throughout the businesses in your local neighborhood.

COMMUNITY SCHOOL NEWS

Many changes are underway at Inman school to get ready for its re-opening as a middle school this fall. Classroom space is being renovated to provide a woodshop, art room, home economics and science labs, and a typing room. Also, a covered concrete pad will be constructed on the playground for physical education activities.

Elton Powers, who will be the principal at Inman, is looking forward to the move. He is very hopeful that the Virginia-Highland community will be actively involved in the school. He especially needs people who are interested in helping with art, drama, or tutoring in reading or math.

The Virginia-Highland Civic Association's Education Committee is working with the Theatrical Outfit to implement an in-school drama program for Grady, Inman and their feeder elementary schools. The committee plans to coordinate a volunteer program at Inman next year. They will sponsor tutor training classes in reading and math, and they are investigating how to help with the art program.

If you would like to work with kids in any of these ways, or if you have any good ideas of your own that you would like to see in action at Inman, call one of the Education Committee members. You don't have to be a parent or a teacher to be interested in your neighborhood school. There's room and need for everyone!
